Sustainable Rainwater Management

September General Meeting
Lisa Landreth, 1st VP/Program

Thursday, September 20, 7:00 pm

Note starting time is earlier than usual!
Elmhurst Public Library, Large Meeting Room

Following August's heavy rains, it's a good time to talk about techniques that provide Sustainable Rainwater Management for our homes and businesses. Jay Womack of Wight and Company will discuss strategies including porous pavement, bioswales, rain gardens, green roofs, and native plant restoration.

Mr. Womack is Wight & Company's Director of Sustainable Design. He is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects and has Professional Accreditation from the US Green Building Council's Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) program. He works extensively on natural resource-based planning projects that holistically integrate site, building, rainwater, and landscape. Wight & Company has worked on many projects in our area including York High School and the new "green" dormitory under construction at Elmhurst College.

Great Decisions

Barbara Swords

Thursday, September 6th, 9:15 am

Our meetings will take place this year at the home of Barbara Swords. The Great Decisions group is allowed to park on the street in front of the house, in the driveway, or around the corner on Utley. You may ignore the No Parking During School Hours signs.

The first topic for the new year is Chapter 4, International migration in a globalized economy. The interconnections between these two issues and the contentious arguments about them in Congress and the media will stimulate our discussion, and, we hope, suggest future resolutions.

Please contact Barbara if you need a copy of this chapter.

Illinois will host this year's Lake Michigan ILO (LMILO) conference at the Illinois Beach State Park Resort and Conference Center. Just 40 minutes north of Chicago, the resort is the only hotel in Illinois located directly on Lake Michigan.

Friday's agenda includes two tours and a dinner. The first tour, from 1:00 to 3:00 pm will visit the North Shore Sanitary District sludge recycling facility in Zion. The first of its kind in the world, the facility takes dewatered sludge cake from the sewage treatment plants and pumps it into storage silos. A closed-loop, oxygen enhanced combustion then bakes the sludge cake to vitrified glass aggregate granulate form. Energy recovery, as part of the system operation, provides fuel for combustion, an air scrubber for odor treatment, and a mercury removal system.

The second tour, from 3:30-5:30 pm, takes us to the Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project. The wetland is a living laboratory used to develop and test design principles, construction methods, and management programs needed to re-create and manage wetlands. The Des Plaines River is polluted with both nonpoint source contaminants from a variety of land uses including agriculture, and point source contaminants from small wastewater treatment plants. Vegetation is heavily grazed and the site contained three abandoned gravel pits. The Project seeks to establish the use of wetland restoration as a viable, economical, and preferred method for stream improvement along similarly degraded streams and watercourses in the US.

Friday evening dinner speakers are Joyce O'Keefe and Debra Nelson. Joyce O'Keefe is currently vice-chair of the Illinois DNR's Natural Resources Advisory Board and a board member of the Illinois Environmental Council. Debra Nelson is a dunes expert with the Illinois DNR.

Saturday morning will be devoted to our Annual Meeting where we will discuss a possible name change for the LMILO. The central question is: Can we advocate for all the Great Lakes, as we do now, without an all inclusive name plus the additional approvals needed to take any action?

The conference will conclude with a Saturday afternoon tour of the Illinois Beach State Park that encompasses the only remaining beach ridge shoreline left in our state. The 4160-acre park also boasts dunes and swales with sprawling marshes, oak forests, and vast arrays of flora and fauna.

Issues & Action

Jan Vanek, Director, Issues and Action

Local League Action Item: Cool Cities

The committee met again on August 15th and welcomed representatives from the Elmhurst Presbyterian Church's Heaven and Earth Growers to our ranks. This group created the children's garden on church property (the corner of Spring and St. Charles) and has numerous members who garden elsewhere to donate fresh produce to local PADS and food pantries.

The two City Committees that will review the Mayor's Proclamation to Reduce CO2 emissions will not take up the question until their joint meeting on September 26th. Therefore, the LWV will draft a letter encouraging the Mayor and Aldermen on the committees to support this movement in Elmhurst and get the Cool Cities designation. Depending on the outcome of the committee meeting, the LWV and coalition partners Sierra Club and AAUW will begin lobbying the entire City Council for support.

Coalition partners discussed ways their organizations can contribute to public education and advocacy for a better environment. LWV activities will include lobbying, mentioned above, and providing volunteers to assist the city with its emissions audit, a Cool Cities requirement.

Meanwhile, the City of Elmhurst has formed a committee of employees from each department who are working together to identify ways the City can continue to reduce CO2 emissions. For example, Mr. Streicher, Wastewater Management Director, has identified renewable energy sources that can provide some energy to the City inexpensively.

On September 19th, LWV reps Jan Vanek and Gina Brigham, and City of Elmhurst Zoning and Planning Administrator, Than Werner, will attend the Green Town Conference in Oak Park. The Committee will meet again at the Elmhurst Public Library at 7:00 pm on Wednesday, September 26th.

LWVIL Action Item: Making Democracy Work – The Show Us Amendment

Do you think the Illinois General Assembly should know the content of the bills they are passing? Do you believe we should have the right to public review of bills before they are passed?

Then the Show Us Amendment is a way to achieve these goals. This is a grassroots petition drive to place an amendment to the Illinois Constitution, Article IV, on the November 2008 general election ballot. The amendment seeks a 21 day public review before any non-emergency legislation is passed by the General Assembly.

Support for this Amendment is part of the current LWVIL Action foci and League members are encouraged to participate in the non-partisan, statewide effort to circulate petitions and collect 350,000 registered voters' signatures by the end of April 2008.

Go to www.showus.org to download petitions and for full instructions on their completion. You can make a difference. Circulate a petition or two in your neighborhood and carry one with you when you are out and about.

For further information or to organize a petition day or event contact Jan Vanek.

Issue Update: National Popular Vote

Last November our League heard a presentation about this movement, an alternative to abolishing the Electoral College (which is the LWV's position). The National Popular Vote initiative encourages states to pass legislation to award all their electoral votes to the presidential candidate who receives the most votes nationally. For this to work, enough states must pass this legislation to ensure that the popular vote winner will have 270 of the 538 electoral votes required to be president.

Since our meeting, the movement has progressed nationwide and has 348 sponsors in 47 states. Maryland Governor O'Malley has signed the bill into law. The Illinois and Hawaii legislatures have passed it and the bill is now waiting for their respective governors' signatures. In California, Colorado, Arkansas, and North Carolina it has passed one house. In six more states – Washington, Montana, New Mexico, Louisiana, West Virginia and Connecticut – it has passed one committee. The bill has been introduced in 30 state legislatures and is in drafting in four more -- Ohio, Minnesota, Delaware and New Hampshire.

Keeping it Green – tips and techniques for living in a greener world

The 30 Second Rule

It's a question many drivers wonder about while waiting for a train to pass or picking up the kids at school – how long can we idle our cars before we use more energy than we would use if we turned it off and restarted the engine later? The answer is 30 seconds.

Elmhurst College Schade Lecture

Sunday, September 30th, 7:00 pm

Hammerschmidt Chapel

Giving Politics a Good Name: Abraham Lincoln and the Permanent Campaign will be presented by Richard Norton Smith at this year's Schade Lecture. Mr. Smith was the first Executive Director of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum and directed the libraries of Presidents Hoover, Eisenhower, Reagan and Ford. He has published biographies on Hoover, Robert Dole, and Chicago icon Colonel Robert McCormick. He is currently working on a book about Nelson Rockefeller.

The lecture, presented in conjunction with the Elmhurst Historical Museum, is free and the general public is encouraged to hear this dynamic speaker who says, "There's no excuse for a dull book, a dull museum, or a dull speech, especially when dealing with history – the most fascinating topic I know."

New Member Interviews

Corinne Johnson

Kay Pankau moved to Elmhurst six years ago. In the past she has been a Cub Scout leader and president of the board of directors for a preschool in St. Charles. Now, with five children, all at home, such obligations seem to have been set aside.

She grew up in Mt. Prospect, where her 90-year-old mother still lives in the family home. Kay earned a degree in Nursing from Northern Illinois University and a law degree from DePaul. Today she is a member of the Legal Department of the Illinois Hospital Association. Her husband is an emergency room physician.

Her one current hobby is her garden where she grows “a little bit of everything”. She shares this activity with her two girls who are also her youngest children. They have a great time outside together.

Family outings are generally close by – Chicago museums and other attractions, and maybe an overnight in a downtown hotel – a real treat.

Kay started her work with the Hospital Association three years ago. The whole political process has long fascinated her, but she wished to remain nonpartisan at the local level. The League provides that point of view and keeps her informed on current issues. In the future, she hopes to participate more directly.

Vince Spaeth has lived in Elmhurst since 1963. He graduated from York High School in 1977 and received a degree in chemical engineering from the University of Wisconsin.

Today he is the general sales manager for Chemtreat, a company that can reconstitute industrial wastewater for reuse within environmental regulations. One such project he is very proud of is his work with the steel plants in northern Indiana, recycling water by using the appropriate additives.

Vince and his wife have three children and each is in two or three sports. He coaches flag football and YMCA basketball. He is a member of the Elmhurst Historical Commission and serves on the Park Board.

In joining the Elmhurst League, he is supporting the local political activities as an interested participant. He also appreciates the efforts given to the Observer Reports. “Everybody needs to take a turn at something,” he added. “It’s a gift we give to each other.”
